SHIFLETT MURDER.

LESS DEEDS OF B. C. GENTRY.

Rim-The Sheriff Petermined.

CHAMLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 3 .- The read out of the killing of Luther Shiffett by B itry, which was published exclusively er the day after the murder in last. Interest in the case has considerably revived in Albemark d Greene counties since the indictment Gentry at the March term of Greene ounty Court. The history of the case is follows: There had long been feud bessen Gentry and Shiffett, the exact nature which could not be learned, but which sathe smouldering fire that led to the stardly deed.

ity deed.

THE MURDEN.

scene of the murder is near Nortonsin Greene county, near the border of parle and about twenty-five miles and about twenty-five miles
the state of t Albemarle and "about twenty-five miles northwest of Charlottesville. Shiflett, in company with Layton Morris, was returning to his bome at night from a distillery, where he had been to transact some business. Gentry was in hiding by the way-side, and as Shiflett came along fired the fatal shot. He had some hot words with Shiflett the same night and took his revence under cover of darkness. After the shot Shiflett walked about ten steps and fell mortally wounded. THE LIGHT OF THE FLASH.

Morris, in his testimony at the inquest, stated that he recognized Gentry by the light from the flash of the weapon. Gentry is a small, wry man, taks with a whine, and always was of very wicked disposition. He was a owner of a steam thresher a year or so ago, and it is said that being the fireman himself he would often run the engine at a dangerous rate and without a water-gnage, and when remonstrated with by his workmen would fly into a passion and remark that he wished the d—d thing would burst and blow them all to h—l.

DEAPLY EXPLOSION. DEADLY EXPLOSION.

The boiler finally exploded, with the result of killing Jeff Mooney, Jr., and Elijah Cox, and seriously injuring several others of Nortonstonville. Gentry's maliciousness knew no bounds. Once when angared be cut his cousin's (Ben. Gentry's) peach-orehard down and was arrested for the offence by the Sheriff of Greene county in Charlottesville, but was never convicted.

ALLEGED TO HAVE POISONED HIS FATHER.

He also poisoned his father by giving him "doctored" whiskey while he (his father) was serving a term in the Stanards-ville jail, so it was reported, and the stomach was brought to Charlottesville for analysis, the result of which is not known. To his list of crimes is also added the burning of a church near Nortons-ville. Altogether his actions before the murder show him to be a dangerous man. After firing the fatal shot at Shiffett he turned westward and fled into the mountain forests.

A WILD SCENE.

The appearance of the country round about where the foul deed was committed is wild and picturesque. Semi-perpendicular cliffs tower in grim and silent majesty above numerous gorges through winch mountain torrents rush. Many of the more gradually-rising slopes are covered with a dense growth of ivy and evergreens which intervenes so closely as to be penetrated only by a person long accustomed to such a locality. There is many a secret path through this mass of undergrowth travelled only by the solitary huntsman and by the wild animals with which this section abounds, which would render it a comparatively safe hiding-place for a person having a knowledge of its dim recesses. Here he need have no fear of a stranger entering, and a desperate man could easily and a desperate man could ease the simple denizens of the ru

It is now reported that Gentry makes frequent visits to his house, and actually ringing a bell in his yard defies the law. It is also said that his wife assists him to evade his pursuers, and in one instance she was known to say that he was concealed between two beds while the house was being searched by the officers. TO GIVE HIMSELF UP.

However, he has secured as his counsel Mr. R. S. Thomas, a prominent lawyer of Standardsville, who says that Gentry has about come to the conclusion to give himself up, but is afraid of being lynched; that there is not a particle of evidence to convict his client.

A Colored Clergyman's View of the Matter-A Nude Body in the River. (Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

DANVILLE, VA., April 3.—At the funeral services to-day of Green Banuster, the colored man who died vesterday, the minister, Rev. G. T. Watkins, also colored, said that a colored brother had approached him and said Banuster was a Democrat, evidently trying to prejudice the minister, and thought by that means to let the funeral obsequies fall flat. The preacher said he was opposed to politics in the church; that he was a Republican, and if there were Republicanism in Heaven and he should get there he would be a Republican in that country. He continued: "I believe in every man veting his convictions, and having his vote counted, but the latter he would not vouch for its being done in every instance."

Two white men while fishing in the Dan river here to-day saw the nude body of a person floating past, but it was a little too far from them to catchit. They could not tell whether it was a male or a female, but it appeared to them to be a person of about fourteen years of age. It was floating down stream headforemost and on the left side.

erate Pensioners to Encamp.

respondence of the Richmond Dispatch. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., April 2.—The rain is again blightening the hopes of the farmers, and it will require many days of sunshine to dry the ground sufficiently to permit ploughing. The crop outlook is now worse than at any time this year. Upon inquiry at the State Weather Bureau to-day it was learned that the rainfall here during March was 7½ inches, which is 2½ inches above the average. The mean temperature during the month was only 45 degrees, or four degrees above the average. The rainfall during the past three months was 16½ inches, or 3 inches above normal, and nearly all of this was in February and March.

HIGH BRIDGES OR DRAWBRIDGES. The Steamer Beta Laid Up Because the Tar River Is High.

SCOTLAND NECK, N. C., April 2.—The Shiloh oil-mills, near Tarboro', put the steamer "Beta" on the river for the convenience of the mills, but the high water in Tar fiver now will not allow the steamer to pass under the railroad bridge nor the county bridge. The steamer is lying up at Tarboro', and there is talk of the oil-mill company suing the railroad company and the county for not having drawbridges so the steamer can pass.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch. (By telegraph to the Dispatch.

WASHINOTON, D. C., April 3.—Superintendent Porter to-day made public the result of a special count by races of the State of California. The object of this special count was to separate the Chinese and Indians from the rest of the population, as required in the laws of that State, for the purposes of State apportionment.

The following table shows the population of the critical state of the critical state.

11,437 71,681 1,099 12,355 16,277 1,208,130

The statement further shows that while the Chinese population of the State as a whole has decreased by 3,451 since 1880, there has been an increase in the Chinese since that time of 4,123. There have also been material increases in the counties of Freeno, Kern, Los Angeles, Monterey, San Bernardino, San Diego, Solano, and Sonoma. The counties in which the Chinese population has materially decreased within the last decade are Alameda. Amador, Butte, Calaveras, Del Norte, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, San Ranito, Shasta, Siegra. cer, Plumas. San Benito, Sh Trinity, Tuolumne, and Yuba.

SAVANNAH, GA., April 3.—Thomas Gadsden, cashier of the Merchants National Bank of this city, committed suicide this morning by blowing his brains out with a revolver at the grave of his daughter in Laurel-Grove cemetery. Mr. Gadsden was a prominent man in Savannah, had been connected with the bank for many years, and was interested in various business enterprises. He was a vestryman in St. John's Episcopal church. He left his residence early this morning and told the servant he was going for a walk. He went straight to the cemetery and to the grave of his daughter, who died two years ago. Putting the revolver to his temple, he fired and fell across the mound. The shot was heard by some colored men in the cemetery and shortly afterward the body was found. The cause of the suicide is not yet known.

The regular patrons of the accommodation of shoo-fly trains of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad were surprised resterday morning to see the following card hanging up in the cars:

morning to see the following card hanging up in the cars:

NOTICE.—RICHMOND, FREDERICKSBURG AND POTOMAC RAILROAD COMPANY, OFFICE OF TRAFFIC MANAGER. RICHMOND, April 1, 1891.—On and after April 9, 1891, local passenger trains will arrive and leave at Eiba. The local train now running to and from Byrd-Street depot will not run between Byrd-Street and Eiba after the date named.

C. A. TAYLOR,
Traffic Manager.

We of Ashland agree with our Richmond friends in many things and work for mutual benefit, but the idea of blocking out passenger trains from Fredericksburg is just one little bit too much.

DRAWING THE LINE TOO FINE.

DRAWING THE LINE TOO FINE.

The action taken by the company is on account of the ordinance passed by Richmond's City Council and it is drawing the line too fine for Richmond's good. Freight trains are different from passenger trains and there can be no reason why local passengers should not have the same privileges that through ones have. This change will be most inconvenient to our businessmen, who now will be compelled to leave their offices considerably earlier besides having to pay car-fare on the street-cars and stand a chance of being left often on account of delays occurring to them that at times are unavoidable. It is hoped the City Fathers will give the railroad company the right to run the local train as it has been done for years.
